A. F. L. VOTES FOR STATE INSURANCE FOR UNEMPLOYED

Convention Almost Unanimous for Plan Whereby Benefits Are Provided Wholly by Industry.

CONTROL BY BOARDS IS RECOMMENDED

President Green Declares Employers Were Warned That the Workers Could Wait No Longer.

By the Associated Press. CINCINNATI, O., Nov. 29.—The American Federation of Labor convention today approved plans for state unemployment insurance systems paid for by industry.

The vote came after a full morning of debate. Only three delegates voted against the proposal in a show of hands.

The Federation thus is committed to work in each State for a system of unemployment insurance supported financially wholly by industry; compulsory and all-administered by State commissions.

The Federation later in the day added to its program plans to seek "repeal of the eighteenth amendment as rapidly as that can be brought about," immediate modification of the Volstead act, and "the elimination of all far as possible of all immigration."

President William Green called unemployment insurance "this great economic reform," asserting, "we have warned employers we could wait no longer to restore hope and revive the spirit of the masses."

Opponents of the plan said they preferred a shorter work week to any insurance plan.

Charles P. Howard of Indianapolis, a member of the Resolutions Committee that reported favorably on the insurance plan, declared he would "rather see labor get its economic power to compel industry to provide jobs rather than provide insurance."

John P. Frye of Washington, secretary of the Metal Trades Council, contended, too, that "whether the state, employer or employee pays the premium makes no difference, for... '50 per cent of the people will pay for unemployment insurance wherever it is placed."

"Last year, at our 1931 convention, we said that there are two approaches to unemployment: either to make jobs secure or to provide relief for unemployment," Green said. "If unemployment insurance is fastened around the neck of management of industry, it will be because it has failed to heed our warning and grant the masses the right to earn a living."

The vote followed a statement by Thomas J. Donnelly, secretary of the Ohio State Federation of Labor, that if Ohio had started to create an unemployment reserve in 1923, $184,000,000 would have been available for relief in the last three years.

The overwhelming vote was as follows: 1. Legislation in each state making unemployment insurance compulsory, because "voluntary schemes are unlikely to pervade industry generally"; state rather than Federal legislation, because of the restrictions of the Federal Constitution.

2. Levies on industry alone to provide adequate reserves, pay benefits, and pay the cost of administration, because "unemployment is, to a certain extent, one of the inevitable incidents of production, and must, therefore, be regarded as part of the unescapable costs of industry"; assessments of not less than 3 per cent of normal pay-rolls are suggested.

3. Administration by state commissions, either new or existing, on which management and labor are given equal representation.

4. Investment of the insurance plan reserves in Federal securities or those of some state and municipalities.

5. Unemployment insurance benefits to be a legal right due to all making claims, without regard to citizenship, union affiliation, or labor disputes; and due if work is available only at lower than prevailing rates or conditions; partially unemployed to receive partial benefits.

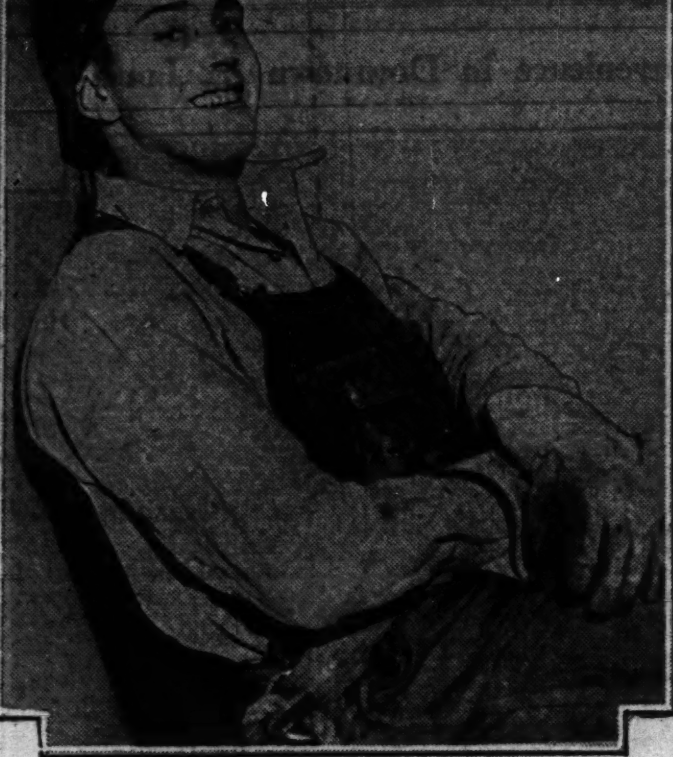

6. The whole scheme should be so constructed as to induce and stimulate so far as possible the regularization and stabilization of employment.

The Reconstruction Finance Corporation was charged before the convention yesterday with having discriminated in favor of doubtful states in distributing "let funds before the recent election."

Breaking into discussion of means for providing relief funds for the winter, Thomas Kennedy of Hamilton, Pa., proposed that Congress be asked to order that all states be treated equally in receiving the funds, but his suggestion was not made formally, and no action was taken. NEGRO SHOT RUNNING AWAY FROM POLICE

Chase Starts After Report of Burglary Attempt at Apartment.

A Negro who said he was George Alex, 30 years old, 2602 Lawton boulevard, was shot through the hips this afternoon by Probationary Patrolman Forrest Meldrum of the Deers Street Station, after Meldrum and other officers had pursued him from an apartment house at 2629 Belle Glade avenue, where a burglary had been attempted.

Alex was running away from the building when the officers arrived, in response to a telephone call from a resident. Meldrum chased him to an alley between Kennerly and Lincoln avenues, and near Goodwood avenue, ordered him to halt. The officer fired only one shot.

Police say Alex, who is unemployed, admitted an attempt to pick the lock at a second floor apartment, but said he was frightened away by the same Negro woman who called the officers.

Stabbed to Death in Quarrel. John Jones, 43 years old, a Negro, was fatally stabbed during a quarrel with another Negro last night at Jones' home, 3410 Pine street. A man named by Jones as his assailant is held at Laclede District Station.

Incidentally the United States as well. Shall Europe or Our Taxpayers Pay War Debts the Point, Says Johnson. By the Associated Press. WASHINGTON, Nov. 30.—While administration officials await the next war debt postponement move from abroad, Senator Hiram Johnson of California has pointed out view that postponement of the December war debt payment would be beneficial economically to both creditor and debtor, and later outlined his views to the King.

There appeared to be a growing belief that the December payment would be made before the Government would hear of default. There has been some talk that payment of the $65,500,000 interest might be suggested with legal postponement action on the principal.

Speaking at Birmingham, L. S. Amery, former Secretary for Dominion, declared default of the debt "would be a double-edged weapon for a country like ours, which is still the greatest creditor nation in the world."

"Apart from the war debts, Britain is owed by the rest of the world $4,000,000,000, four times more than we owe the United States," he said. "The consequences of default would strike us in the face from every quarter."

Amery said the only way to pay America would be by denouncing commercial treaties, if necessary, in order to cut down purchases of American goods.

"America must understand she cannot have it both ways—debts be cut to do it," he said. "I believe, if that is made clear to the United States, it will do far more to bring us to a position where satisfactory settlement can be made than any amount of reasoned dispatches to say that our payments would hurt the world at large and

$500,000 BONDS ARE STOLEN FROM NEW YORK BANK

Taken From Tellers' Cage in the Continental, Perhaps Fished Out With Cane With Gum on End.

By the Associated Press. NEW YORK, Nov. 30.—Five $100,000 Liberty bonds were stolen yesterday from a paying teller's cage in the Continental Bank, in the financial district. The teller, Robert Drummond, said the bonds disappeared from a shelf in his cage between 12:30 and 2 p. m.

Bank officers absolved Drummond of any suspicion. Detectives advanced a theory that the bonds were fished from the cage possibly with a cane with gum on the end. Examination of the shelf disclosed traces of a sticky substance.

Drummond said he left the cage several times in the interval between the time the bonds arrived and the disappearance was discovered. During this time, Drummond said, two men came to his cage, asking the procedure of cashing a check drawn on a California bank.

Other tellers recalled the visit of the two men and they were taken, with Drummond, to Police Headquarters to look through photographs in the rogues' gallery.

Police said the theft doubtless was committed by someone who knew of the transfer of the bonds to the Continental Bank from the C. F. Childs Co., 1 Wall street. The missing bonds were half of a $1,000,000 transfer.

Drummond said he laid the five on the shelf to await the remaining batch. When these arrived at 2 p. m. the theft of the first five was discovered.

The serial numbers of the bonds, of the 3 1/2 per cent issue due in 1945, were 392, 300, 3223, 3683 and 5037.

The loss was covered by insurance. Drummond, who has been with the bank for 15 years, told investigators he left his cage immediately after the two men called to ask about the California check and that both men were standing outside the cage at that time.

"I'm telling them all I can't do anything for them, but wish I could," said Kinney. "They're after me for all sorts of jobs—State Finance Commissioner, Oil Inspector, Police Commissioner, clerk's jobs, everything. It would take two

An ex-Colonel in the Army is applying for Police Commissioner. A young fellow in my ward said that he was a clerk in the Police Department. FORD EXPECTED OUT OF HOSPITAL DEC. 10

Seems to Be 'Regular Self' and Recovery From Operation Progresses Normally.

By the Associated Press. DETROIT, Nov. 30.—Friends said today that Henry Ford's recovery from the major surgical operation he underwent Saturday has been so rapid that he may be able to leave the hospital by Dec. 6.

The friends said he seemed to be his "regular self" and looked as well as he did before the operation. They said he sat up in bed for some time yesterday and listened with pleasure to messages from well-wishers all over the world who read to him.

Two reports to have evoked particular pleasure were from the Prince of Wales and President von Hindenburg of Germany. He also was informed of telephone calls received from King George of England, Mussolini and other persons.

A brief bulletin on the condition of Ford, timed at 10 a. m. today, said: "Mr. Ford slept calmly all night. Temperature 98.4, pulse 72, respiration 20."

Last night's bulletin said his temperature was 99, pulse 86 and respiration normal.

William J. Cameron, spokesman for Ford, told newspaper men that he expected Ford to be able to leave the hospital within the 14-day period usually allowed for such cases.

Ford was operated on Saturday for a strangulated femoral hernia and an infected appendix.

TESTIFIES MANN SHARED $460,000 FROM LOTTERIES

Eagles Auditor Says Head of Order and Promoter Divided Profits of Scheme.

TELLS OF "CHARITY DANCE AND FROLIC"

Total Taken In Was $1,759,273, He Declares on Stand at Trial of Officers in New York.

By the Associated Press. NEW YORK, Nov. 30.—Eugene Balisger of Kansas City, Mo., auditor for the fraternal Order of Eagles, testified today that Conrad Mann, head of the Eagles, and Bernard C. McGuire, professional promoter, divided $460,000 net profits from an Eagles "charity dance and frolic" conducted in 1931.

Balisger was the first witness at the trial of Mann, McGuire, Frank Hering and Raymond Walsh, on charges that they conspired to violate Federal lottery laws and caused lottery tickets to be shipped across state borders.

The witness, questioned by Assistant United States Attorney Louis Mead Treadwell, said that a total of $1,759,273 was taken in from the "charity dance and frolic" enterprise. He said that $1,319,387 was paid into the Eagles' bazar department, of which Mann was managing director. McGuire purchased to reward the Eagles members for selling tickets. He said, cost $407,799.86. Prizes totaled $75,000.

In addition to $280,000 which McGuire received from his division with Mann, the witness testified, $10 a week was paid to him and charged to expenses of the Kansas office. This totaled $14,175.

About a Drawing.

Treadwell, through questions to Balisger, brought out a story of a boat trip in 1931 on invitation by Mann. He said Mann, Hering and McGuire were on the boat.

"What took place?" asked Treadwell. "The boat pulled out. A portion of the boat was tipped off. Refreshments were served. McGuire took charge of the proceedings and announced that he was authorized to make the awards."

"Stubs and tickets were placed into a cylindrical receptacle. Eventually, Mr. (Robert) Proctor, who was grand president, came down a balcony and solemnly made a motion that he be chosen to draw out the tickets. He immediately pulled up his sleeves and went to work, and it was agreed that the first ticket should get first prize and so on. Proctor, a former State Senator of Elkhardt, Ind., is one of the defense attorneys."

The Government finished with the witness after he testified that the expenses of the boat trip were paid out of the bazar account. Joseph H. Kelley of defense counsel for Mann and Hering cross-examined. Balisger explained to the jury that the Eagles were incorporated in 1893 in the State of Washington and that the grand series made up past grand worthy presidents of the subordinate series. Between conventions, he said, the organization is ruled by a board of trustees.

Sharing the Burden.

"Didn't Mann tell you that he wouldn't go into the bazar contract with the Eagles unless he had somebody to share the burden with him?" Kelley asked the witness.

"Yes, sir," answered Balisger. "Isn't it a fact that Hering was taken into it for that reason?"

"Absolutely."

"Did either Mann or Hering make any withdrawals between the time of the creation of the department of bazars in 1926 until, let me say, the first of 1931?" Kelley asked. "No," said Balisger. "Kelley didn't draw out any money, because they weren't earning any?"

Kelley introduced a letter to Mann from McGuire, undated, which said: "I just came in from Aurora. I will telephone you. I just finished my work with the Moose."

Balisger said that so far as he knew the letter was the first communication Mann received from the promoter. The second, he said, was a telegram which Kelley read to the jury. The wire complained that Mann had sounded cold over the telephone and it said: "I hope you will not allow any outside influence interfere with the working arrangement between you and L."

Balisger testified that Mann's official positions in the insurance were chairman of the insurance, chief auditor, managing or financial adviser, manager of director of the department of fair and bazar, chairman of the committee of the Grand Aerie, a member of the publicity board and former Grand Worthy president.

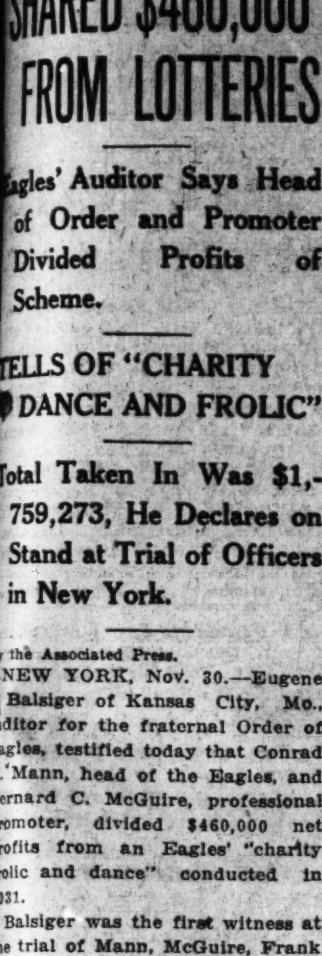

Witness Identifies Contract.

Balisger described Hering as chairman of the Old Age Pension Committee and a member of the Sanitation and Employment Committee.

The witness identified two exhibits with which the Government laid a groundwork for its case. They were the order creating the bazar department in 1926 and the contract between Mann and the Eagles which gave Mann the right to execute contracts for fund-raising activities with outside promoters.

The prosecution hinges a contract between Mann and McGuire. The bazar contract with Mann will not expire until 1934. It provided that 60 per cent of all net profits were to go to the Eagles and 40 per cent to Mann as "his personal property, not subject to review."

Treadwell next introduced a contract between Mann and Hering. Balisger identified it and Treadwell read it to the jury. It provided that Hering should receive 33 1/3 per cent of all net profits according to Mann from the bazar department. Treadwell read only a part of the Hering-Mann contract.

A supplemental contract between Mann and the Eagles, put into the record by Treadwell, provided that local Eagle aeries could contract with outside promoters with permission of the bazar department director.

Conferences Described.

Balisger testified that Mann related to him the general details of a conference between Mann and McGuire in Chicago in December, 1930.

The witness then described another conference at which he was present. He said McGuire stated at the conference that a campaign which he put on for the Loyal Order of Moose had been a great success.

Treadwell asked about the giving of prizes. "McGuire said that he had a legal way in which to give the prizes," said Balisger.

He said the contract for McGuire's Eagle campaign was signed on the next day, Dec. 30, 1930.

The contract was read to the jury. In it McGuire agreed to give McGuire a list of all Eagles, and it provided that McGuire was to draw an expense account of $300 a week. McGuire agreed to conduct a series of fund raising activities among the individual aeries. All money was to be placed in a joint bank account under the name of the bazar department, with checks requiring the signatures of both Mann and McGuire. The profits were to go 60 per cent to McGuire, 40 per cent to Mann. They were equally liable in the event of loss, but Mann was designated to arrange all credit for the purchase of merchandise.

on that point. Joseph Griesedieck, president of the Falstaff Corporation, thought 2.75 would be satisfactory.

Question of Beer Sale.

The brewers are uncertain about the method of distribution. They do not think the beer will return. Busch thinks that if Congress undertakes to legalize real beer without repeal of the eighteenth amendment, the distribution should continue just as it has been.

That is, the states and municipalities could make their own regulations. He thought the custom of "treating" at the bar in the old saloon was an evil. He would like to see the beer sold at tables and drink beer, and he thinks restaurants should be allowed to sell beer with meals.

Other means of distribution would be retail stores which could sell it by the bottle or the case. The brewers also might deliver by the case direct to homes.

In 1917 St. Louis brewers produced nearly 3,000,000 barrels of beer, 31 gallons to the barrel. The output was valued at the brewers' prices at $27,454,345, or nearly $10 a barrel. The Federal Government tax was $1.50 a barrel.

TRYING RIDING MASTER ON CHARGES OF GIRL

State Charges He Is Father of Her Unborn Child—She Testifies.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW CITY, N. Y., Nov. 30.—Charlotte Gibson, prominent in Rockland County society, took the witness stand today as the first witness against Sidney Herbert Homewood, riding master, alleged to be the father of her unborn child.

District Attorney Henry V. Stebbins had charged she yielded to Homewood because he made it appear her submission was a part of their frolic. Stebbins said the defendant had won the confidence of the girl by informing her he had broken his engagement to Miss Elizabeth Bishop of Wheaton College. Until then she would have nothing to do with him.

Miss Gibson told how she met Homewood at his riding academy five years ago, where she went with her mother for a lesson. Her voice trembled when she said "yes, sir" to the question "are you unmarried?" She is to be a mother soon.

She went into detail about the lessons she took in jumping last year, referring always to Homewood as "the defendant." She rode one of his horses in a horse show at Cresskill, N. J., she narrated. Then again in Stamford, Conn., a year ago last July—and at this show Miss Gibson herself made reservation at the hotel for Miss Elizabeth Bishop, the girl to whom Homewood was then engaged.

Stebbins had told the jury that he would prove it was Miss Bishop who broke the engagement, although Homewood had made it appear he had severed relations because he was in love with Miss Gibson.

Homewood, the witness testified, taught her how to drive and to skate. He sold her a car, he said and daily fed her for her horse. At Christmas he sent her a card speaking of "radiant paths through the new year." And he sent a box of carrots to Starlight, her horse.

"Early in 1932, Miss Gibson said, Homewood assured her he was "not engaged to anyone." But it was not until March, just before she became intimate with Homewood, that he said definitely his engagement was broken.

"I won't marry you if you are such an iceber," the witness said Homewood told her.

Then she bowed her head and her fingers clasped each other. A court attendant ran for a doctor, but the girl regained her composure.

She went on with the story which is the basis of the charge. After an evening at the movies Homewood "drove her around," she related. He stopped the car at an entrance to a cemetery and suggested they "sit and talk." He talked of his love for her, she said.

President-Elect Agrees, However, Not to Extend Jurisdiction Over "Province of Louisiana."

By the Associated Press. WARM SPRINGS, Ga., Nov. 30.—Senator Huey "Kingfish" Long of Louisiana visited President-elect Roosevelt at the latter's hilltop cottage here today, and on coming away, he said:

"I went in and he said, 'Hello, Kingfish; you know it's King and Kingfish now.'"

"And I said, 'I just wanted to know if you are going to extend your jurisdiction over my province of Louisiana.'"

"He answered: 'No, as monarch over Georgia and Alabama, we'll be neighbors.'"

"You know, I went up to ask him about a postmastership at Winfield, La., and I've been talking to Jim Farley about it. I think I have about convinced him. All of these men are coming over to see him about Cabinet places and ambassadorships, so I made my request for something that I might have a chance of getting."

GIRL SERIOUSLY BURNED WHEN CANDLE IGNITES COSTUME

Marian Alger, 9, Appearing With Other Children in Webster Groves Benefit Show.

Marian Alger, 9-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David B. Alger, 1102 Summit avenue, Webster Groves, was severely burned last night when the costume she was wearing in a benefit performance at the Masonic Temple in Webster Groves became ignited by a candle held by another child on the stage.

The children were appearing in the prologue to a three-act comedy called "The Play's the Thing," presented by members of the (re) of Eastern Star. A few small girls, including Marian, were wearing faries costumes and others were carrying lighted candles which they were supposed to extinguish as all the children gathered in a circle around an adult story-teller.

In the excitement, some of the children forgot to put out their candles. Marian backed into one and her flimsy dress burst into flames. Members of the audience, including parents of some of the children, rushed to the stage and put out the flames.

Marian was taken to St. Mary's Hospital, suffering from burns of the entire body above the knees. Her father is salesman for an oil company.

ST. LOUIS AVIATORS GET SPEED TROPHIES

Presentation Made to Maj. Doolittle and Hazlip at Luncheon.

Maj. Jimmie Doolittle, speed flyer, and his St. Louis flying companions, whose performances were the outstanding features of this year's National Air Races at Cleveland, received their trophies today at a luncheon of the Chamber of Commerce air board at Hotel Jefferson.

Honored with Maj. Doolittle were James G. Hazlip, Doolittle's assistant in the aviation department of the Shell Oil Co., Mrs. Mae Hazlip and Winston Kratz. Maj. Doolittle received the Thompson trophy, awarded to the winner of the principal speed event at the air show. The presentation was made by Charles E. Thompson, Cleveland manufacturer, who donated the trophy.

Hazlip received the Bendix trophy for his record-breaking transcontinental flight in 19 hours, 19 minutes. H. L. Sharlock, vice-president of the Bendix Corporation of South Bend, Ind., made the presentation in the absence of Vincent Bendix, the donor, who is in Europe.

Mrs. Hazlip, wife of the Bendix trophy winner received from Alex. Fraser, vice-president of the Shell Petroleum Corporation, a plaque for winning a speed dash for woman pilots. She also set a new speed record of 258 miles an hour for women.

Kratz, an officer of the Thirty-fifth Division Aviation, won the Martha Morehouse Johnson Trophy for precision landings with a dead engine. Mrs. Johnson was represented at the luncheon by her brother, Lieut. R. A. Morehouse of the Army Air Corps.

Another trophy won by Doolittle, the Clifford W. Henderson National Merit Award, was not completed in time for presentation today. The award, made for the first time, goes to the pilot compiling the greatest number of points during the air races. Doolittle accomplished this by his victories in the Thompson race, another race sponsored by the Shell Co., and in setting a new speed record of 296 miles an hour for land planes. The trophy will be sent the winner later.

Organizations represented at the presentation included the Chambers of Commerce of East St. Louis, St.

MISS TALMADGE DENIES JESSEL DIVORCE STORY

Norma Says She Did Not Guarantee $100,000 for Comedian's Ex-Wife.

By the Associated Press. NEW YORK, Nov. 30.—Statements made in court that Norma Talmadge, noted movie star, assisted George Jessel, Broadway comedian, in his $100,000 divorce settlement with his former wife, Florence Courtney, were denied by Miss Talmadge.

The statements, filed in Supreme Court as the result of a dispute between two lawyers, said Miss Talmadge, threatened with an allegation of affection suit, alleged securities at a bank that Jessel would pay. Miss Talmadge, at Los Angeles, denied guaranteeing any property settlement. She said that with Jessel's ability to earn $10,000 weekly it "seems ridiculous that any one should be asked to guarantee a paltry $100,000 property settlement."

There has been no allegation of affection suit, she said. "I have no intention of marrying Jessel. I am still married to Joseph Schenck (Hollywood producer) and I have no intention of getting a divorce."

The Daily News in a copyrighted article quoted Jessel as saying Miss Talmadge's part in his divorce was confined to guaranteeing to appear with Jessel in vaudeville so he could make the $100,000.

The statements about the alleged agreement appeared in a suit by Frank Ippolito against Theodore J. Lesser for dissolution of their legal firm. One of the points at issue was a $6000 fee that Ippolito said the firm was entitled to for adjusting the Jessel affairs. In an affidavit, Ippolito said:

"Among other things Mrs. Florence Jessel asserted a claim against Miss Talmadge for a large sum of money for alienating the affections of her husband. At the time the negotiations for a settlement commenced, Mr. Jessel was not in a position to pay a sum satisfactory to his wife."

"Finally an agreement was consummated whereby Mrs. Florence Jessel agreed to accept from her husband in full settlement of all her rights as his wife the sum of $100,000, and Mrs. Jessel releasing any claim she might have against Miss Talmadge for alienating Mr. Jessel's affections. Miss Talmadge agreed to guarantee the payments called for in the contract between the Jessels, plus the sum of $10,000 to the attorneys."

ROOSEVELT STRESSES MEDICAL

NEEDS OF PERSONS IN WANT

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
 NEW YORK, Nov. 20.—President-elect Franklin D. Roosevelt in a letter read at a luncheon of the Committee on Costs of Medical Care, yesterday stressed the need for adequate medical assistance to "millions of new women and children how in need of all the amenities of life."

 The letter, written to Dr. Thomas Parkman Jr., State Health Commissioner of New York, pointed out this medical assistance "is vastly more important now because of the changed economic situation."
 "Many Americans are deeply interested in the conclusions and recommendations of your committee," the President-elect wrote. "I hope that you have arrived at a practical policy for the present emergency whereby more and better medical care may be made available for those in want and for those to whom the disaster of illness would mean destitution."

Santa Claus Is Financed!

Right now we are paying

$367,916.00

Interest to Mercantile-Commerce Savers, and what a Christmas Club that is!

We do not operate the ordinary kind of a Christmas Club because a Mercantile-Commerce Savings Account will do everything a Christmas Club account will do, some things it won't do, and pay interest in addition.

In either account you may make regular deposits of a set amount, but in a Mercantile-Commerce Savings Account you may vary this amount.

If you need to draw money you must close your Christmas Club account entirely, but you may withdraw part from a Mercantile-Commerce Savings Account and leave the remainder in to draw interest.

You can start a Mercantile-Commerce Savings Account now and have what you save, with interest added, on December first next year.

Better do it...Santa will need financing next year, too.

HOW MONEY GIVEN TO CRISIS RELIEF IS TO BE DISTRIBUTED

Of the $3,850,000 Sought $290,936 Will Be Turned Over to Agencies in County.

The relief work carried on in St.
Louis County by agencies which will participate in the United Relief Campaign beginning Sunday is outlined in the current issue of a pamphlet prepared for the use of campaign workers.

Of the $3,850,000 sought, the pamphlet points out, $290,936 is allocated to family relief agencies which operate in the county, and there are in addition hospitals, clinics and other institutions for specialized relief which serve both the city and county.

Family relief needs of the county for 1933 are estimated at $441,- 030, but it is hoped to obtain $100,- 034, or 24 per cent of the total, from tax revenues and the balance
from the United Relief Campaign.
In St. Louis 52 per cent of the requirements of family relief agencies may be met by bond issue funds, the proportion of public money being greater in the city because of legal limitations which hamper the appropriation of tax funds for relief in the county.

Reason for including County.
The pamphlet asks how St. Louis County gains by co-operating with the city in a relief program and replies: "Through co-ordination of effort, the city and county save the expense of setting up separate administrative machinery along with separate hospitals, clinics, institutions and specialized services. They profit mutually from the relief policies they have worked out in common through Citizens' Committee on Relief and Employment."
These policies, incidentally, have been commended in a national Russell Sage Foundation survey for their economy and efficiency.

St. Louis County agencies which will participate in proceeds of the United Relief Campaign are the County Welfare Association, Welstar Groves Chapter of the Red Cross, Jewish Social Service Bureau and the Children's Aid Society.

Cost of Relief Work
The mounting cost of relief work as indicated in the October figures was shown today by E. G. Steger, director of Citizens' Committee on Relief and Employment. The committee and its agencies spent $119,- 424 during October in assisting 25,- 281 families.

The number of families in need of help was seven times as many, cost 10 times that of October, 1932.
"Relief costs have increased more rapidly," Steger explained, "because as the resources of the unemployed become exhausted their needs increase, and more complete care is required. Where incidental relief sufficed at first, many families now must have food, shelter, clothing, health care and other essentials."

During October, Steger said, 7591 families that did not require help in September were added to the relief rolls. Others were dropped, however, so the net increase was 1042. At one time or another this year, he said, 74,439 families have been forced to seek assistance from the Citizens' Committee and its agencies.

500 most obedient convicts—stretching from Dec. 1 to Jan. 15—

S. M. Miller as a reward to long-term prisoners for outstanding prison records.

The first of the 500 will be released tomorrow at daylight. From then until Dec. 25 the gates will swing open frequently as the Chief Executive completes the list of the fortunate. Last year Gov. Miller gave Christmas paroles to more than 300, and all but three returned on time.

GAIN IN EMPLOYMENT CONTINUES IN MISSOURI

Erection of Municipal Buildings Cited as Hopeful Sign
in U. S. Report.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Nov. 30.—The upward trend in industrial employment noted during September continued throughout October in Missouri, the Department of Labor notes in its monthly report.

"The erection of municipal buildings, enlargement of public utility plants, and civic improvements in the larger cities furnished employment for many men and building continued at higher levels in the small cities and rural communities," the report says.

"There was a decline in the number of active State Highway projects, but this work continued to afford the best opportunity for unskilled labor and approximately 11,000 were thus engaged.

"Employment in the railroad shops and steel mills showed little improvement. Crews in the passenger departments of the railroads were increased. Lead and zinc mines expanded production. Coal and iron mine activities remained below normal. Employment in the automobile assembling plants decreased. Additional Government projects along the Mississippi and Missouri Rivers furnished employment for a large number of workers. The seasonal decline noted in agricultural activities was reflected in a decreased demand for these workers which was accentuated by the return of men from the cities."

Situation at St. Joseph.

At St. Joseph the employment situation was slightly relieved by Federal projects on the Missouri River, highway construction and a slight upward trend in confectionery and garment factories and meat-packing houses.

Building of a municipal auditorium at St. Louis, construction of the foundation for a Federal building and private building projects caused a definite improvement in the demand for labor, although unemployment among craftsmen and other workers was in evidence.
Automobile assembly plants continued on a part time schedule.
Marked increase in employment over September was noted in wholesale houses, shoe, clothing, confectionery, millinery and toy factories and the lumber, paper and steel industries. Meat packing houses, men's clothing factories and chemical plants operated close to normal. Street widening engaged 350 skilled and unskilled workers, and Government river projects nearby employed about 500 men. Clerical help, unskilled labor and railroad workers predominated in the unemployment reported.

Several hundred men were employed near Springfield on State highway projects. The majority of the manufacturing establishments there reported increased operations. Additional train service and shop work increased employment among railroad men. Erection of a Government hospital continued as the major building project. A gas and electric company employed 100 men on service extensions.

Report on Kansas City.

A slight upward trend was noted in the employment situation in Kansas City although a surplus of labor was apparent in nearly all industrial lines, most noticeably among railroad and building trades men. Work on a Federal building was well advanced, releasing several craftsmen. Part-time schedules were maintained in many plants, including garment concerns, while the haberdashery factories and confectionery plants operated at capacity. Mail order houses and jobbers also made additions to their forces. State highway construction near the city furnished employment to several hundred men.

At Joplin activities in the lead and zinc mines continued to show improvement, with a new zinc mill in operation with a large force.
Employment in other industrial lines showed a slight improvement, although part-time operations continued in the majority.

A surplus of labor continued at Hannibal, most noticeable among clerical and office help. A shoe factory employed an additional shift of 100 men and operated on a five-day week basis. Other plants continued on curtailed schedules.

THREE WOMEN ROBBED BY PURSE-SNATCHERS

Mrs. Edith Werner Slipped in Face by One of Two Boys Who Got 70 Cents.

Three women were robbed by purse-snatchers last night. Miss Helen Gerst, 2504 University street, was walking on Grand boulevard near Cass avenue when a man took her purse and $4.50. Miss Bernice Thomas, 4123 West Pine boulevard, was robbed of her purse, $5.50 and a $25 ring by a Negro in the 3100 block of Olive street. Mrs. Edith Werner, 4052 Delmar boulevard, was slapped in the face by one of two boys who took her purse and 70 cents near $400 Washington boulevard.

John Hiestand, 6233 Berthold avenue, a driver for the Lungstrass Dyeing and Cleaning Co., was held up in the 900 block of Laurel street by two men who took $3.

As George Repp, 4338 Sacramento avenue, driver of a truck for the Papendick Bakery Co., started away after making a delivery at fourteenth and Ferry streets, an armed man leaped aboard the truck, ordered him into an alley and robbed him of $20.

Julius Millner, grocer, 2501 Clark avenue, was held up by three Negroes, two of them armed. They took $20 and checks from the cash register.

Theft of 15 Government automatic pistols from the National Guard Armory at De Soto, Mo., was reported to police here yesterday.

LOON IS NOT SO LOONY NOW

He is Eating Regularly in the Washington Zoo.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30.—Acting loony won a loon a better home than he's ever known, at least in cold weather.

The loon descended upon the ice-filled reflecting pool in front of the Lincoln Memorial. Now a loon, which is something like a duck or a goose, needs a long swim in clear water to take off. With all the ice about he had to stay down. Knowing all this, Kirvin M. Hoffman, naturalist, donned rubber boots, picked up a butterfly net and stepped into the water. The loon, loony again, dived and came up somewhere else. Every time Hoffman approached, the process was repeated until at last the loon dived into the net. He is eating well now away after making a delivery at

Is He A FOOL or is he Not?

Never neglects his Morning Bath... Careless of his Teeth and Gums!

It's the great American custom—that morning bath. But your teeth and gums require daily, intelligent attention, too! Here's what science says: "Civilized man eats cooked foods—too soft to stimulate circulation through his gums. Hence, his gums become flabby—then tender—and he's likely to have 'pink tooth brush.' His gums bleed."

"Pink tooth brush," your dentist will tell you, "is often the forerunner of dull, gray teeth. It may lead to gum troubles as serious as gingivitis, Vincent's disease, and even pyorrhea. It sometimes endangers sound teeth."

Here's what to do. Clean your teeth with Ipana. And each time, rub a little extra Ipana right into your gums. The sristol in Ipana, with the massage, keeps the gums toned and firm.

Follow this Ipana regime regularly—and your teeth will be thoroughly clean, and bright. Your gums will be hard and healthy. And you won't have to worry about "pink" on your tooth brush.

avoid "PINK TOOTH BRUSH" with IPANA and MASSAGE

JUDGE FARIS WON'T DISQUALIFY SELF IN FRISCO ACTION

Overrules Motion of Two Security Holders—J. M. Kurn's Salary as Receiver $2500 a Month.

Salaries of the receivers of the Frisco Railroad and their counsel were fixed by Federal Judge Faris today. The salary of James M. Kurn, former president of the Frisco, as operating receiver, will be $2500 a month, or $25,000 a year. The salary of John S. Leonard, president of the Mercantile-Commerce Bank & Trust Co., as co-receiver, will be $1800 a month, or $18,000 a year. E. T. Miller, general counsel for the receivers, will receive $2000 a month, or $24,000 a year.

Judge Faris overruled the request made by Charles and Dora Gans of Baltimore, Frisco bondholders and plaintiffs in one of the two receivership suits, that he disqualify himself from acting in the Frisco case. The ruling was brought about by the appearance in court of Louis Mayer, St. Louis attorney for the Ganses, who had charged Judge Faris with unfair treatment.

Addressing the Court, Mayer said, "I notice in the Daily Record that the Court has made two operating orders for the receivers. As I understand the law, a Judge is disqualified from acting from the time of the filing of the application for disqualification."

"That would be true if I would sustain the application," the Court countered, "but I will cure that now. I had thought of it at the time I made the orders and I will now overrule your application."

Judge Faris, in overruling the application, said that the matters complained of by the Ganses were matters appearing between the Court and counsel and not between the court and the Ganses. He said also that there was some doubt as to the legal sufficiency of the notary's acknowledgment of the Gans' affidavit.

Court "Notes Exceptions."

"An order overruling the application will be entered," Faris concluded, "and the Court will note exceptions of counsel."

"Please note my exceptions," Mayer said.

"I just did that," Faris replied. Mayer then said, "I notice that five attorneys for the railroad have filed affidavits denying the Court's prejudice. I think they are improper and should be stricken from the files. I haven't read them," he added.

"You have nothing on this Court," Faris answered, "I haven't read them either. But I will overrule your request and note your exceptions."

Following Landis Case. In overruling Mayer's last request, Judge Faris said he was following the precedent of the Landis case in the United States Supreme Court. Commenting on the affidavit, he said: "It would be remarkable if one man among 10 should be permitted to give his version of what occurred among them all, while the mouths of nine others should remain closed."

"Unfriendly Feeling." The application for disqualification charged that Faris had exhibited, both in open court and in chambers, an unfriendly feeling toward Mayer and Jack Lewis Kraus, New York attorney for the Ganses. On one occasion, it was alleged, Faris threatened to expel Kraus from the courthouse.

Five affidavits of attorneys for the railroad and intervenors in the receivership litigation, filed later, said that Faris had conducted himself throughout the various hearings and in chambers with courtesy and patience.

AIRWAYS FACTIONS AGREE ON NEW BOARD

First Step by Cord and Cohn Forces in Compromise on Fight for Control.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Nov. 30.—As an initial step in their plan for an evenly divided and harmonious control of the Aviation Corporation of Delaware, the forces of E. L. Cord and the present management headed by Lamotte T. Cohn, yesterday agreed on the selection of a new board of 18 members to supplant the former directorate of 12 members. The compromise came unexpectedly two weeks ago to terminate the fight between the two factions for proxies to gain control. Announcement of the new board followed a long session of the old directorate. The reconstituted board includes a few of the old directors and also includes names of well-known financial figures not hitherto identified with the aviation industry.

Vanderlip a New Director.
Among the new directors are Carl C. Conway, chairman of the board of the Continental Can Co.; Frank A. Vanderlip, former president of the National City Bank of New York, and a close associate of Cord; R. E. Prust of Chicago, general counsel for the Ford Corporation; Lindsey C. Mowton of Birmingham, a director of the Freeport-Texas Sulphur Co.; Richard P. Hoyt of Hayden, Stone & Co., bankers, New York; M. C. Meigs of Chicago, who is active in aeronautical affairs; Matthew S. Sloan, former president of the New York Edison Co.; and Charles L. Lawrence, president of the Aeronautical Chamber of Commerce.

Members of the old board who were chosen for the new set-up are E. L. Cord, L. B. Manning, executive vice-president of the Ford Corporation; Robert Lehman, chairman of the board; Lamotte T. Cohn, president; W. A. Harriman of Brown Brothers, Harriman & Co.; Amos G. Carter of Fort Worth, Tex.; George H. Horn of Pittsburgh and Lyndol L. Young of Los Angeles, a Cord attorney.

Irrespective of any additional changes in the management, Wall Street regards yesterday's developments as the final chapter in the struggle between the youthful Cord and the Cohn management for a dominating place in the affairs of the company.

Cord Opposed Deal.
The contest started through Cord's unwillingness to sanction the plan of the Aviation Corporation to acquire "certain assets" or all assets of North American Aviation, Inc. The aviation corporation management wanted control of the other to hook up its transcontinental line with a system covering a Southern route to connect with Pan-American Airways. Cord charged that Aviation Corporation, in proposing to issue about 2,000,000 shares of its stock to acquire North American Aviation, was committing itself to a bad bargain, injurious to all stockholders, and particularly against Cord's interests in that his percentage of stock ownership would have been materially lowered with the issuance of the new stock.

Aviation Corporation's operating company is American Airways, a coast-to-coast route, while North American controls the Eastern Air Transport extending south to Florida.

Decision on the North American deal, if it is still under consideration, will be made by stockholders of the Aviation Corporation of Delaware at a meeting to be held some time in December.

Denied Divorce From Actress.
LOS ANGELES, Nov. 30.—A motion for a final decree of divorce from Mrs. Margaret Plato Whitaker, former movie actress, filed by Francis Whitaker, Beverly Hills millionaire, was denied yesterday by Superior Judge W. S. Baird. Whitaker won an interlocutory decree of divorce on a cross-complaint when he contested Mrs. Whitaker's divorce suit two years ago. She accused him of habitual intoxication and cruelty while he charged her with intoxication and infidelity. The decree was denied pending outcome of an appeal made by Mrs. Whitaker.

TESTIMONY ON VALUE
OF SEAWAY TO TRADEOfficial Says 19,000,000 Tons
Would Be Available for St. Lawrence Route.By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Nov. 29.—Testimony favorable to the St. Lawrence waterway treaty was presented to a Senate Foreign Relations subcommittee yesterday by spokesmen for the army engineers, the Shipping Board, the Commerce Department and the State of Illinois.Two officers of the Army Engineer Corps testified the project to connect the Great Lakes with the sea could be completed easily within the official estimate of $545,- 000,000.
A. Lane Cribber, chief of the transportation division of the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce, said a survey several years ago indicated there were from 19,- 000,000 to 24,000,000 long tons of cargo available for movement through the waterway. He said the project would reduce transportation rates, but refused to offer a conclusion as to its economic feasibility.6300 Ships Could Use Route.
An estimate that 66 per cent of the world's ocean tonnage, represented by 6300 ships with drafts of 25 feet or less, could use the proposed waterway was offered by Alfred H. Haag, director of the Bureau of Research of the Shipping Board. He added that 90 per cent of the cargo vessels now in use could navigate the channel if 27-foot vessels carried 80 per cent of their cargo dead-weight.William N. Pelouse, Chicago manufacturer and director of the Great Lakes-St. Lawrence Waterway Association, speaking for Gov. Emmerson of Illinois, urged the committee to hasten ratification of the treaty, saying it was "difficult to visualize the benefits" to the lake cities and interior states.He said the waterway would produce savings of 10 cents a bushel on the shipment of grain for export during normal times.The army engineers were Brigadier-General George B. Pillsbury, Assistant Chief of the Corps, and
Col. E. M. Markham, Assistant
Chief of the Great Lakes Division.Plenty of Water for Illinois.
Pillsbury said about $30,000,000 should be added to the estimated cost of the project to the United States for carrying charges or accrued interest, but Markham said he was confident the estimates were so liberal they would easily cover this.Pillsbury discounted the importance of the question of water diversion from Lake Michigan, saying the treaty provided plenty of water to make a commercial success of the Illinois waterway.Both engineers denied that the treaty proposed an outlay by the United States of $40,000,000 for a power project in Canada, without compensating benefit to this country.

Modern Cafeteria Puts "Bread Line" Indoors

Unemployed Are Fed at Cost of 10 Cents a Day Instead of 30 Cents as at Commercial Restaurants.

A modern cafeteria for unemployed men, without the atmosphere of the soup kitchen or bread line, was opened last night at 118 North Sixteenth street by the Bureau for Homeless Men, an agency of the Citizens' Committee on Relief and Employment.

Equipped to feed 400 men at a time, it is estimated that 2000, the capacity, will be eating there within 10 days. The cafeteria was opened primarily as an economy measure to reduce the number of tickets issued by the bureau for meals at commercial restaurants at a cost of 30 cents a day.

The cafeteria system enables the bureau to feed men for 10 cents a day, entailing saving which G. W. Gwinner, executive secretary of the bureau, estimated today would average about $3000 a week. About 25 per cent of the men still to be fed by commercial restaurants, he said, since tickets for them will be issued after the cafeteria's capacity has been reached. Two meals a day, breakfast and dinner, are served.

Cost of the cafeteria, exclusive of a lease at a moderate rental, was $2500, including equipment. The work of preparing it was done by unemployed men on a work relief basis, he added, and the 30 men now employed there were jobless before it opened.

Men admitted to the cafeteria are exclusive of those who receive their meals at the Municipal Lodging House or the Osannam Shelter at the old Mullamphy Hospital. Some of the cafeteria diners are lodged in rooming houses by the bureau, others have their own quarters but lack the means to provide food.

Instead of issuing tickets on about 30 restaurants, most of the meal tickets issued by the bureau, which has offices at 1413 Pine street, now call for cafeteria service. Some of the old type meal tickets, it was found, turned up in the hands of saloon keepers, and others were used for stakes in card games.

Apart from objectives of economy, the cafeteria is designed to serve good food in attractive surroundings. The only thing missing is the cash register.

White-coated Negro stewards went into swift action last night as the first men appeared at the head of a long serving counter. About 20 men a minute were served with roast beef, peas, mashed potatoes, slaw, two slices of bread, coffee and rice pudding. Dinner was served to 240 men last night and 200 ate breakfast there this morning.

Breakfast consisted of oatmeal, sausage, fried potatoes, rolls and coffee. About 600 men are expected for dinner tonight and tickets will be issued so that the number served will increase each day until capacity has been reached.

The chef is Tom Palku, instructor of army cooks during the World War, with classes at the Coliseum, and since then chef at various times at leading hotels here. He is in charge of a kitchen equipped with eight hotel gas ranges and racks of dishes. The dishes are washed in a bin containing three compartments, one for a first washing, one for a rinsing and the other for a scalding.

The cafeteria, said by Gwinner to be the only one of its kind in the country, contains 75 long pine tables flanked by backless benches. The ceiling is white and the walls and columns are finished in a green and white color scheme. The men await each meal in a second-story room, eliminating the necessity of a line outside.

Serving is continuous since the first arrivals have finished their meals by the time others are ready to begin. Both Negro and white men are served.

Those who were fed there last night ate without talking, but their smiles indicated their pleasure.

MRS. T. A. KNOBLOCH FILES SUIT FOR DIVORCE IN RENO

Decree She Obtained in St. Louis Last April Was Set Aside; $250 Monthly Alimony Sought.

RENO, Nev., Nov. 30.—Mrs. Margaret Webb Knobloch of St. Louis, who has been in Reno for a month, filed suit yesterday to divorce Thomas A. Knobloch of Ellettsville, Ark., on grounds of cruelty and nonsupport.

She obtained a decree in St. Louis last April but the divorce was set aside when Knobloch's attorney told the Court he had been occupied with another case and had not been able to make a proper defense for his client.

In the first suit, Mrs. Knobloch alleged non-support and general indignities. The Knoblochs were married on St. Valentine's day, 1923, and separated in July, 1931. She asks for $250 a month alimony in the action here.

Mrs. Knobloch, whose residence is at the Park Plaza Hotel, is the daughter of the late James Webb, partner in the stock and bond brokerage firm of Paul Brown & Co. She and a brother will share their father's $500,000 estate at the death of their mother, for whom it is now held in trust. Knobloch was formerly in the oil business.

NEW $250,000 LIBEL SUIT AGAINST MRS. AMBRUSTER

Mrs. Josephine Fisher Files Fresh Action After Previous One Is Dismissed.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Nov. 30.—A new suit asking $250,000 for alleged libel was filed yesterday by Mrs. Josephine S. Fisher against Mrs. Edith E. Ambruster of St. Louis, one of eight defendants previously sued by Mrs. Fisher.

The suit is based on the same instance alleged previously, namely that a pamphlet containing alleged defamation of Mrs. Fisher was circulated at a State convention of the Order of the Eastern Star at St. Joseph in 1928. Mrs. Fisher obtained a $125,000 verdict against the eight defendants in June, 1931, but a Kansas City Judge ruled that Mrs. Ambruster was entitled to a new trial because of the nature of her privileges as an officer at the convention.

Attorneys for Mrs. Fisher then dismissed the action as to her in order to allow judgment to be entered against the others. Named with Mrs. Ambruster in yesterday's suit is Alva K. Richards, Kansas City real estate man, who was not sued previously. Mrs. Ambruster is head of an undertaking concern.

$3 worth of protection for $1 when Pepsodent Antiseptic fights colds

PEPSODENT ANTISEPTIC is 3 times as powerful as other leading mouth antiseptics. Hence it goes 3 times as far. And whether you buy the 25c, 50c, or $1 size, you still get 3 times as much for your money.

FEWER colds this year—quicker relief from those you catch—and money saved besides. That's the promise Pepsodent Antiseptic makes you. Millions by experience can tell you it's true. Pepsodent Antiseptic is different from other leading mouth antiseptics.

It does the work of $3

Pepsodent is 3 times more powerful in killing germs—it goes 3 times as far—gives you 3 times as much for your money and gives you extra protection against sore throat colds. In fighting stubborn colds, remember there really are only two leading kinds of mouth antiseptics on the market. In one group is the mouth antiseptic that must be used full strength to be effective. In the other group is Pepsodent Antiseptic, utterly safe when used full strength, yet powerful enough to be diluted with two parts of water and still kill germs in less than 10 seconds!

Don't fool yourself!

It is bad enough to pay the extra cost of using antiseptics that must be used full strength... it's worse to dilute them and fail to kill the germs... so choose the antiseptic that kills the germs even when it is diluted. Insist on Pepsodent Antiseptic—and be safe.

SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL

TRADE IRREGULAR IN OCTOBER IN 8TH RESERVE DISTRICT

Most Changes Are Toward Further Lessening of Activity, Bank's Monthly Report Points Out.

Trade and industry in the Eighth Federal Reserve District reflected spotty and irregular conditions during October with most changes toward a further lessening of activity, according to the current monthly report of the Federal Reserve Bank of St. Louis, made public today.

While the slowing down in several lines investigated was traceable to seasonal influences, the report says, curtailment elsewhere was too marked to be ascribed solely to seasonal considerations. Unusually high temperatures in October and the first week of November restricted business in merchandising lines, it is noted, and a further recession in commodity prices, both of agricultural products and manufactured goods, was an added deterrent to trade.

Trend of Retail Trade.
The volume of retail trade in October declined below that of the preceding month and a year ago. Sales in wholesale and jobbing lines were smaller than for October, 1931, and, with the exception of furniture and hardware, than for September, 1932. Moderate betterment was noted in production of chamber at Southern mills. October output of bituminous coal mines showed a substantial gain over the preceding month, falling only 8 per cent below October a year ago.

Agricultural conditions were helped by favorable weather with particular prospects for betterment in corn, cotton and potatoes. Prices of livestock and farm products continued to decline, however, with prices for wheat and corn reaching new low levels for the season and since records have been kept.

Retail trade as reflected by sales of department stores in the district's principal cities was 5.5 per cent less than in September and 22.6 per cent less than in October, 1931. For the first 10 months sales were 22.7 less than for the corresponding period in 1931.

In St. Louis the decline from October, 1931, was 25.9 per cent, and for the first 10 months it amounted to 23.1 per cent.

Sales of wholesaling and jobbing interests decreased 17 per cent under September, 1931, with sales for the first 10 months about one-fourth less than in the comparable period last year.

Value of Construction.
While the dollar value of permits for new construction in the district's five largest cities was almost double that of September, the decline from October, 1931, amounted to 26 per cent. For the first 10 months of this year the decline was 73.4 per cent. In St. Louis the dollar value of permits for October was $215,000 as compared with $463,000 for the previous October.

Since the unusual increase in railroad freight traffic during September and the first half of October, the report says, the trend has been downward. The St. Louis Terminal Railway Association, handling interchanges for 35 connecting lines, interchanged 133,086 loads in October as against 130,361 in September and 152,751 in October, 1931. During the first nine days of November the interchange amounted to 25,139 loads as against 40,811 during the same period in October.

Estimated tonnage of the Federal Barge Line, between St. Louis and New Orleans, was 198,700 tons in October, against 91,958 in September and 104,535 in October, 1931.

Conditions in individual industries are reported as follows:
Boots and Shoes—October sales of reporting firms were 10 per cent below the September total and 7.6 per cent under the total for October, 1931. There was a better demand for cheaper grades of merchandise.

Clothing—Unseasonably warm weather held down the demand for heavy apparel, and ordering for spring distribution is smaller than at any similar season for more than 10 years. Sales declined 7.5 per cent from September and were only about half as large as in October, 1931.

Drugs and Chemicals—The improvement noted in September failed to hold, sales declined 12.5 per cent and about 20 per cent from October, 1931.

Dry Goods—Sales showed a decrease of 13 per cent under September, but were only 4 per cent under October, 1931. The decrease was entirely due to lower prices as the unit volume was substantially larger than in 1931.

Electrical Supplies—For the third consecutive month sales were larger than in the preceding month. The October total, however, was less than half as large as for October, 1931.

Flour—Production at 12 leading mills totaled 237,488 barrels as against 258,697 in September and 272,284 in October, 1931.

Furniture—For the first time in 18 months, sales showed an increase over the corresponding period of last year. October sales increased 7 per cent over October, 1931, but were 1.5 per cent under last September.

Hardware—Continuing the improvement noted in the preceding 40 days, sales were 3 per cent larger than in September, but were 18 per cent smaller than in October, 1931.

PART OF NATURAL BRIDGE AV. TO BE OPENED THIS WEEK

Paving From Fair Avenue to Kingshighway Nearly Ready; Program Accelerated.
By the end of this week, new asphalt pavement of widened Natural Bridge avenue will be opened for use between Fair Avenue and Kingshighway, a distance of about a mile and a half. The block between Newstead and Taylor Avenue, in this section, was opened last week. The north half of the pavement in the block between Newstead and Clarence Avenue will not be finished for about another week.

New pavement in Natural Bridge also has been completed for about six blocks, between Garrison Avenue and Twenty-second street, except for the intersection of Twenty-fifth street, which will not be ready for two or three weeks. By the time the intersection is finished, the block between Twenty-second and North Florissant Avenue, eastern terminus of the widening, will be ready.

The section between Union and Goodfellow boulevards, where a center center strip was replaced with concrete, was opened recently. Paving of the sections between Kingshighway and Union and between Goodfellow and the city limits is under contract to start by next spring. Action has been deferred on the district between Garrison and Fair Avenue because of a controversy over the city's effort to save 346 trees along the border of Fairground Park.

NEW TREATMENT FOR EXPECTANT
AND NURSING MOTHERS

When a baby is expected, laxatives must not be used. Mother must not take them as long as she is carrying or nursing the little one.

Doctors will tell you that laxatives taken by the mother are a danger to baby. It is a crime to risk your baby's health. That is why they so often advise Cream of Nujol.

This new form of Nujol is specially suitable for expectant and nursing mothers because it does not upset the stomach or cause cramps and does not pass into the milk.

If you are expecting a baby, take the new harmless Cream of Nujol treatment night and morning. It is kind to the delicate bowel membranes, and being free of drugs, it is safe for you and your child. Moreover, it is delicious and easy to take.
At a cost of only a few cents a day it will make you "as regular as clockwork," and protect the health of your child. Buy it at any drug counter.

NEW YORK 'MARCHERS' OFF TO WASHINGTON

Contingents From That State and New England Due to Arrive Sunday.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Nov. 30.—The New York and New England contingents of the motorized "march on Washington" left Union Square today in 20 large moving vans, followed by five vans loaded with food supplies and equipment.

The "marchers" allowed themselves four days for the 238-mile journey between New York and Washington, planning to arrive in the national capital Sunday, the day before the short session of Congress is to convene. Leaders of the march said about 800 men made up the New York and New England contingents.

"Hunger Marchers" Refuse Free Meal Offered at Cleveland.

By the Associated Press.
CLEVELAND, O., Nov. 30.—
More than 400 marchers en route to Washington to seek Federal aid refused free meals of bread, bologna and coffee offered them last night by the city of Cleveland and further decided not to sleep on the concrete floor of the public hall basement which had been assigned them.

With one loud "boo," the marchers picked up their duffle bags and walked out of the hall, leaving behind 175 gallons of coffee, 700 loaves of bread and 175 pounds of sausage. The decision to abandon the municipal fare was made when local sympathizers offered hot meals and better quarters in halls in other parts of the city.

Another contingent of about 50 marchers arrived last night in Columbus and were fed there by the Unemployed Council.

By the Associated Press.
BICKNELL, Ind., Nov. 30.—
After spending a night here, a contingent of self-styled "hunger marchers" en route to Washington, departed for Louisville. Traveling in five trucks and seven passenger cars, the marchers were escorted through Vincennes last night by officers who refused to permit them to stay overnight in that city.

WOMAN WHO TOOK DRUG ON TRAIN IS IDENTIFIED

DANVILLE, Ill., Nov. 30.—A woman, who tried to end her life
Sunday on a Chicago & Eastern Illinois passenger train from St.
Louis, was identified last night by friends as Miss Nora Meese, formerly a nurse of Clinton, Ill.

She had been in a stupor at the Jarman Hospital, Tuscola, since she was removed from the train at Villa Grove, apparently suffering from an overdose of a drug.

She had lived at Champaign until a year ago, persons making the identification said, and was a short story writer, having won prizes in fiction contests.

The woman, who left a note written on stationery of the Melbourne Hotel, St. Louis, has been conscious at brief intervals, but nothing has been learned from her. She is expected to recover, physicians said.

Influenza Cases Doubled.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Nov. 30.—An increase in influenza, centering in the West and South, was noted today in Public Health Service reports. The total number of cases for the week ending Nov. 24 was 6306 as against 3086 for the week previous. Alabama had 1940 cases as against 1264 the week before; Louisiana 499; California
1721 against 803; and Oregon
112 against 51.

MOTHER DROWNS BABY AND SELF IN CISTERN

Despondent Over Father's Death and Dispute Over Will—Second Child Rescued.

By the Associated Press.

TOLEDO, O., Nov. 30.—Throwing two of her children into a cistern, Mrs. Ross Burger, 39 years old, jumped in after them today and was drowned. One of the children, the first born together, was rescued, but the other was drowned.

Floating in the water with the bodies was the will of Mrs. Burger's father, John Geckle, 75, over whose death and disputed provisions of the will she was reported to have been despondent.

Six-month-old Clarence Burger, was drowned with his mother. Virginia, 5, was rescued by the father, Fred Burger, who was aroused by a third child, Janet, 7.

Mrs. Burger took Clarence and Virginia from their beds, tied Virginia's feet together, and the baby's hands behind his back. She fastened a water bucket to her own feet to make certain she would sink.

Janet saw her mother take the children from bed and a few moments later heard screams coming from the cistern. Janet's shouts sent her father, jobless for the last two years, to the rescue.

Burger and a neighbor, William Herlin, recovered Mrs. Burger's body. Burger said he and his wife sat up late last night, discussing her father's will, over which relatives were reported dissatisfied because Mrs. Burger was a principal beneficiary.

Mrs. Burger and her brother, Clarence of Detroit, were bequeathed $1000 each. Other relatives were left sums ranging from $25 up.

The Burgers had another child, Bobby, 3.

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 30.—Helen Lee Worthing, 34-year-old former Broadway actress, divorced last June from her Negro husband, Dr. Eugene C. Nelson of Los Angeles, was committed yesterday to a rest home in nearby Santa Monica. A hearing was held before Superior Judge Thomas C. Gould on a complaint by a friend, Horace Anderson, who said Miss Worthing had threatened suicide and suffered hallucinations.

Dr. Nelson agreed to pay the $25 a week expense for keeping Miss Worthing at the home.

KANSAS CITY AVALON NIGHT CLUB FOLDS UP

Equipment Taken Away by St. Louis Promoters While Employees Are Unpaid.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
KANSAS CITY, Mo., Nov. 30.—The Avalon Supper Club at Gillham Plaza and Thirty-first street failed to open last night. It was discovered to be extinct by eight waiters, eight chorus girls, an electrician, a few cooks and an orchestra when they reported for work.

A watchman was on duty, placed there by Thomas Bright, owner of the building, who had made the discovery almost simultaneously with the departure for St. Louis of Sam Goldberg and his wife, Sophie, the operators. The watchman's duty was to meet the employees at the door and permit them to recover their personal belongings.

The discoverers did not need the watchman's help to discover their losses. The waiters each lost two weeks' wages, the chorus girls four days, the orchestra two weeks and the cooks two weeks. The electrician's loss was not recorded.

The closing was done by the Goldbergs with the aid of a truck from St. Louis, and an automobile. About 6:10 o'clock yesterday the truck backed to the loading dock. Into it went the costumes of the chorus girls and silverware and dishes, said to be the property of the club of the same name at 4460 Delmar boulevard, St. Louis. The truck bearing the property and the car bearing the Goldbergs departed at once for St. Louis.

The total loss to employees and creditors was about $5000. That included rent, which would have been due today.

The Goldbergs came here from St. Louis early in October and opened the club, after spending considerable money in redecorating and furnishing the hall under a three-year lease.

Last Saturday the orchestra leader ran an attachment on the Goldberg bank account and got $612. That was all there was in the bank. It lacked considerable of meeting the bill. Bright became suspicious at about the same time, only he was a few hours too late.

Monday the operators of the St. Louis Avalon came here. They are Irving Rothschild and his wife, Elsie Rothschild. The sequel to their visit was the trucking out last night.

Today the creditors may take what measures remain for them to recover the furniture and furnishings. Grocers and supply houses will find that the food and liquid refreshments they sold the Avalon have been consumed.

Illinois Commerce Commission Alleges Terms of Bond Issue for Gas Plant at Flora Were Violated.

NO PLANS WERE EVER
DRAWN FOR PROJECT

Yet $7756 Was Obtained by Public Sale of Securities—$80,000 Block Ordered Canceled.

By the Associated Press.
SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Nov. 30.—
The Commerce Commission has ordered repayment of the purchase price to innocent purchasers of bonds issued by the Consolidated Utilities Corporation, formerly the Flora Gas and Fuel Co., for the proposed erection of a gas plant at Flora.

The case involves the Mississippi Valley Construction Co., whose officers are a printer, a baker and a clerk in a law office; the brokerage firm of Henry L. Trout & Co., Chicago, and the officers of all three of the companies.

In 1920 the Flora Gas & Fuel
Co. obtained a certificate to construct and operate a gas plant in Flora and later was granted authority to issue and sell $42,000 in stock and $60,000 in bonds at not less than 85 per cent of par value, to finance construction of a butane gas system. The company changed its name to Consolidated Utilities Corporation and issuance of the bonds under that name was authorized by the commission.

Last May the commission advised by the State's Attorney's office of Cook County of alleged questionable transactions in securities of these companies, began an investigation which resulted in today's order.

Three Deals Made.
In November, 1920, three agreements were made, it is said. The Consolidated company agreed to sell to the Trout company, $28,000 of its bonds, receiving 85 per cent of par value, payable in installments. Consolidated also agreed to pay the Mississippi Valley Construction Co. for erection of a gas plant, $27,000 in Consolidated bonds and $19,550 cash. The construction company arranged with the Trout company to obtain 15 per cent of the face value of the bonds.

These deals, the commission pointed out, would produce $23,000
for construction of the gas plant, preclude the Trout company from being the construction company's only resources.

The construction company, the commission's order charges, served as a medium for sale or disposal of the bonds of the utility company on terms not authorized by the commission.

No Plans Drawn for Plant.
No plans ever were drawn for the gas plant, the commission alleges.

The Trout company showed it sold $11,500 of the bonds to the public for $6756.37 cash and securities now worth $1000.

At the price authorized by the commission the order points out, the $11,500 in bonds would have yielded $9775.

Oct. 18, 1931, A. G. Brenneck, former president and director of the Consolidated company, and Arthur J. Smith, president of the company, agreed to an exchange of stock in the company, it is said, involving among other things a $1000 cash payment by Brenneck to Smith.

The stock involved was deposited in escrow with the Trout company pending payment of the $1000, no portion of which has been paid. As a result, $14,000 in stock remains in possession of Brenneck and, the commission states in its order, "it is clear that he came into possession of them on terms not in conformity with the order of the commission, and furthermore that the party from whom he received them had no claim to ownership thereof."

How Directors Were "Elected."
The record in the case discloses, the commission says, that Smith never has been a stockholder in the company and that the directors who approved contracts between the utility company, the brokerage company and the construction company held no stock in the company and were "elected" at a meeting at which no actual stockholders were either present or represented by proxy.

The commission directed the Consolidated Utilities Corporation to discontinue any further sale of its mortgage bonds.

The commission's authorization of the issue of $40,000 is revoked and canceled, as to all the bonds except the principal amount of $11-400 or such part of that as now is outstanding in the hands of investors.

The Consolidated company to secure and deliver to the Commerce Commission $26,500 in bonds now in possession of Henry L. Trout & Co.

Consolidated also agreed to pay the Mississippi Valley Construction Co. for erection of a gas plant, $37,000 in Consolidated bonds and $19,550 cash. The construction company arranged with the Trout company to obtain 15 per cent of the face value of the bond sale.

These deals, the commission pointed out, would cost $22,000 for construction of the gas plant, proceeds of the sale of the bonds being the construction company's only resources.

The construction company, the commission's order charges, served as a medium for sale or disposal of the bonds of the utility company on terms not authorized by the commission.

No Plans Drawn for Plant.
No plans ever were drawn for the gas plant, the commission alleges.

The Trout company showed it sold $11,500 of the bonds to the public for $7,756 and securities now worth $10,000.

At the price authorized by the commission the order points out, the $11,500 in bonds would have added $775.

The commission's authorization of the issue of $40,000 is revoked and canceled as to all the bonds except the principal amount of $11,500 or such part of that as now is outstanding in the hands of investors.

for Thomas, Returns Incomplete.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Nov. 30.—Nearly complete returns from the November elections shows that the voters broke three records in casting a total vote of at least 20,000,000 and giving Gov. Roosevelt 22,314,058 and President Hoover 15,575,474.

This total, with more than 40 States complete, is an increase of more than 2,000,000 over the previous high vote of 16,789,669 polled in 1928. Gov. Roosevelt's vote is the most ever given to a winning candidate, and Mr. Hoover's is a top figure for a losing nominee.

Seven minor party candidates received 1,008,164 on the basis of returns from all but about one-twelfth of the nation's 119,643 precincts or voting districts—tripling the minor party vote of four years ago.

Norman Thomas, the Socialist presidential candidate, kept pace with the total gain, his $65,819 being more than twice the 247,835 he got in 1928. The Socialist record was in 1920 when Eugene Debs polled 919,799. Complete returns may show that Thomas got as many votes as Debs.

Other Minor Candidates.
William Z. Foster, Communist candidate, received 69,104 votes compared with his 48,228 four years ago when he ran as the Workers' Party candidate. William D. Upshaw, Prohibition party nominee, polled 59,656 on the basis of 104,000 precincts. That is nearly double that party's vote of four years ago. His total is the largest given the prohibition ticket since the first election after constitutional prohibition was adopted in 1920.

Other minor party candidates received the following:

Liberty H. (Conn.) Harvey..... 45,045
Verne L. Reynolds, Socialist-Labor..... 21,858
Jacob S. Cokey, Farmer..... 6,495
James R. Cox, Jobs-Labor..... 219

The Popular ticket polled four votes in South Carolina, making the total minor party vote 1,008,164.

Gov. Roosevelt's plurality of 6,738,584 over President Hoover compares with a plurality of 4,412,612 given to Mr. Hoover over Smith in 1928 and the 7,333,512 Coolidge plurality over Davis in 1924, when the elder La Follette was a third party candidate.

Six states gave Gov. Roosevelt more than a million votes: California, 1,276,423; Illinois, 1,382,304; Missouri, 1,006,618; New York, 2,524,616; Ohio, 1,801,695; Pennsylvania, 1,278,435.

President Hoover polled more than a million in four states: Illinois, 1,432,756; New York, 1,930,878; Ohio, 1,237,679; Pennsylvania, 1,442,192.

The figures indicate there will be no change in the electoral vote in the final returns from the totals recently compiled, which showed Mr. Hoover on only six states—Connecticut, Delaware, Maine, New Hampshire, Pennsylvania and Vermont—with a total electoral vote of 59. The other 42 states went for Gov. Roosevelt, with an electoral vote of 47.

The popular vote for the major candidates, by states, based on nearly complete returns, follows:

URGES BARRING OF CHURCHES AS RADIO STATION OPERATORS*Ira E. Robinson, Former Head of U. S. Board, Appears Before Commission.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Nov. 30.—Ira E. Robinson, a former chairman of the Radio Commission, told that board today that no religious organization should be permitted to operate a radio station for its special benefit.

"No church has a right on the air to broadcast special religious programs," said Robinson, speaking on behalf of an application to increase the facilities of station WORC-WEPS of Worcester, Mass.

"Let them do the same thing as department stores—go to the commercial stations and buy time or else get it free."

"This commission has no right to allocate valuable facilities belonging to all the people to any group for use as a personal mouthpiece to build up an organization or to accumulate a fortune."

OLDEST FABRIC IN ANATOLIA
ISTANBUL, Turkey, Nov. 30.—The Angora Museum today became the owner of the oldest piece of fabric ever found in Anatolia, a small piece of a prehistoric baby's shroud more than 5000 years old.

The fabric was found in a stone burial cavity 100 feet under the surface of the earth. It was discovered by the Anatolian expedition of the Oriental Institute of the University of Chicago at Alisar, Anatolia. Prof. James C. Breasted is director of the group. Only in Egypt have fabrics older than this shroud been found. The Anatolian fabric dates back to the Chalkolithic era which ended around 5500 B. C.

SUIT OVER PURPORTED PA VINCI
CLEVELAND, Nov. 30.—A canvas said to have been painted by Leonardo da Vinci and valued by its owner at $1,000,000, which for the last seven years has reposed in a bank vault here, was the subject of litigation started yesterday.

In a suit filed in Common Pleas Court, Gordon W. Bentley of the Potter Bentley Studios sought to obtain title to the painting for $225 in debts he alleged were owed by the Baroness Alty von Magnus Schwartzberg of Cleveland. The canvas, according to claims, was for it was painted by Da Vinci between 1490 and 1500. Chalkolithic era which ended around 5500 B. C.

COOLIDGE BOARD LIKELY TO URGE RAIL WAGE CUT*Further Reduction at Expiration of Present Agreement Is Expected to Be Recommended.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Nov. 30.—A further reduction in railway wages on expiration of the present agreement next February is expected in well-informed capital circles to be recommended by the National Transportation Committee, headed by Calvin Coolidge, in its study of the nation's railway structure.

Alarmed at the present low state of railroad securities, and confronted with a new low level of earnings during the first six months of the year, the former President was prevailed on by a rail security-holding group to lead a committee in seeking remedies for a situation which directly affects holders of more than $11,000,000,000 for railroad bonds, notes and other promissory paper, 70 per cent of which was held by banks, insurance companies, universities and similar institutions.

Those in Washington who have kept in close touch with the situation say that operating costs and maintenance already have been cut to such an extent that the wage payroll remains as practically the only reducible item. Further physical economies would affect seriously the operating efficiency of the lines. It is said with many of the roads are sadly in need of rolling stock and right of way replacements.

Railroad agencies are now compiling information for use of the committee which has solicited aid of the Brookings Institute in assembling data and working out remedial recommendations.

Statistics of the Bureau of Railway Economics indicate that only six of the 150 class-one carriers were able to earn their fixed charges during the first six months of 1932. In dollars and cents, the collective return was a net deficit of $127,884,000 after deduction for expenses, taxes and interest charges, representing a reduction of 27 per cent in gross revenues from the comparable period last year, and a drop of 58 per cent in net operating income.

HITLER FAILS TO APPEAR IN BERLIN FOR CONFERENCE

BERLIN, Nov. 30.—Adolf Hitler, the National Socialist leader, sprang a surprise today when he failed to appear in the capital for a conference on the Cabinet crisis with Gen. Kurt von Schleicher, Defense Minister.

Reports last night were that he had agreed to meet the man behind the present Junker government today, but that he boarded a Berlin sleeper at Munich. He left the train at Jena and took one for Weimar. Meanwhile several of his lieutenants were summoned from Berlin to Weimar. When they arrived there they were told Hitler would decide later whether he would meet Von Schleicher.

President von Hindenburg had commissioned Acting Chancellor von Papen, Von Schleicher and Dr. Otto Meisner, his political secretary, to see what could be done in the way of a political truce.

PRESIDENT-ELECT CONTINUES STUDY
OF FARM PROBLEM*House Chairmen on Subject on Conference List—Bennett Clark and Huey Long Call on Roosevelt.

By the Associated Press.
WARM SPRINGS, Ga., Nov. 30.—A renewed study of farm relief and budget balancing and visits by Senator Long of Louisiana and Bennett Clark, Senator-elect from Missouri, preceded talks by Franklin D. Roosevelt today with men who will handle his farm relief program in the House.

Long and Clark arrived together from New Orleans and went to see the President-elect before his morning swim and exercising in the patients' pool. "I'm here to talk about postoffice," Long told newspaper men.

Other callers on the list of the President-elect were: Representatives Jones of Texas and Steagall of Alabama. Jones is chairman of the House Agriculture Committee and Steagall heads the House Banking Committee. The former's committee would handle any program for dealing with the farm surplus and the latter's would shape legislation for liberalizing farm credits in line with Mr. Roosevelt's ideas outlined in the campaign.

Conference With Vinson.
Budgetary matters and governmental economy have been discussed with Representative Vinson of Georgia, chairman of the House Naval Committee.

Vinson said after his visit that he favored numerous economies in the administration of naval affairs and was opposed to consolidation of that department and the army into a department of national defense under one Cabinet officer.

Vinson, who last session advocated building up the navy to the limits of the London naval treaty, said appropriations for new construction and replacements should be held down to about $30,000,000 annually, and that other economies might be effected by a central buying agency for all governmental departments and by eliminating obsolete flying fields.

Muscle Shoals Again.
In another conference the President-elect was urged by Representative Hill of Alabama to foster the early enactment of the Muscle Shoals measure passed by the House in the last session.

Hill, author of the measure which provides for governmental operation of the power plant at the properties and would make optional at the leasing or Federal operation of the nitrate plant, told newspaper men he was hopeful the problem would be finally disposed of in view of the campaign speeches of Roosevelt.

The latter said during the campaign that Muscle Shoals and one or two other governmental projects might be used as a lever for helping to lower the prices of power.

In a conference with newspaper men shortly after he had made a talk on the possibilities of reforestation, Gov. Roosevelt disclosed that he had invited Senator Clinton B. Ketchum, one of the Republican Independents who supported him in the campaign, to visit him at Warm Springs on the way to Washington.

Fixes Cost of Exit Visas at $250 or $500 to Be Paid in Foreign Currency.

By the Associated Press.
MOSCOW, Nov. 30.—Russian citizens who have found it almost impossible heretofore to obtain a permission to leave the country now may have this privilege if they can pay a stiff price in foreign currency.

The Government tourist agency announced today that it would accept orders for exit visas from individuals who desired to leave Russia for permanent residence abroad. The cost, to be paid in foreign currency, is 500 rubles for workers and 1000 rubles for all other classes. Nominally, the ruble is worth 50 cents.

The foreigner will get his outgoing visa for the same charge assessed by his country against a Soviet passport, amounting in the case of Americans to 22 rubles.

Since a comparatively small portion of the population has gold or friends abroad to send them foreign currency, it is not expected that there will be any rush to place orders for exit visas.

URGES ENDING TRADE BARRIERS
World Chamber of Commerce Asks for Nation's Co-Operation.

By the Associated Press.
PARIS, Nov. 30.—The Council of the International Chamber of Commerce today approved a report by its Committee on Surplus Shipping Tonnage urging international cooperation for "re-establishment of trade by the removal of all forms of trade barriers, including economic subsidies."

The report listed as barriers to trade artificial or stimulated production of goods or services, currency restrictions, unnatural interference with trade, and artificial stimulants to commerce.

ALL OF MARINES IN NICARAGUA TO BE GONE BY JAN. 3*With Sandino Over the Border
in Honduras, U. S.
Begins to Withdraw Entire Force of 700.

By the Associated Press.
MANAGUA, Nicaragua, Nov. 30.—The complete evacuation of Nicaragua by United States Marines was begun today and it was expected the entire force of 700 would be gone by Jan. 3. The first unit departing numbered about 300 men. They left Managua yesterday for Corinto and embarked for home today.

Marines were first landed in Nicaragua in 1912. These were withdrawn in 1933, but sent back in 1937. At that time the insurgent, Augustus Sandino, was engaged in activities in the north, and has engaged in military conflict with the Marine trained National Guard since then.

The country is quiet. The last contact between National Guard and Sandinistas occurred Sunday. It was a 15-minute skirmish near Jinotega in which two Sandinistas were slain and three captured, with no guard casualties.

The newspaper La Noticia today published an editorial commenting on reports that Sandino was sending his troops to Honduras to help in the revolution there. The editorial said that if the revolution should win in Honduras, Sandino would gain arms and ammunition, while if the Honduran insurgents lost out, they would probably join Sandino.

An airplane of the Transportes Aereos Centro Americano Co., operating between Honduras and Nicaragua, brought unconfirmed reports that the Honduran Government was shipping arms and ammunition from El Salvador to cope with the situation and was sending troops from Tegucigalpa against the revolutionaries.

State Supreme Court Holds That Missouri Official Can't Serve as Receiver There.

By the Associated Press.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Ok., Nov. 30.—A writ of prohibition restraining ancillary receivers appointed by Tulsa County District Court from supervising Oklahoma affairs of the Farm and Home Savings and Loan Association of Missouri was issued yesterday by the Supreme Court on application of W. Barnett, State Bank Commissioner.

Barnett alleged that George W.

Wagner, Supervisor of Building and Loan Associations of Missouri, and receiver for the company, obtained an Oklahoma receivership appointment without notifying Barnett. The Court upheld the right of Oklahoma County Superior Court receivers, appointed at Barnett's request, to take charge of the company's property in Oklahoma.

Hit that COLD a Dempsey Blow!

Knock It out in the first round!

Don't take a cold lightly or treat it casually. A cold may easily lead to something more serious. Treat a cold quickly. Treat it seriously. Treat it decisively.

First of all, take a COLD remedy for a cold. A cold is a specific condition calling for specific treatment. A remedy that is good for half a dozen things can't be equally effective for a cold. Many people actually fool themselves with popular "cure-alls" because they constipate and make the system acid.

Second, take an internal medicine for a cold. A cold is an internal infection and calls for internal treatment. Local, or outside applications can't reach the real seat of the trouble and can't prevent the infection spreading within the system.

Four Effects in One!

Every requirement for quick and decisive relief of a cold is found in Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine. Ask your doctor and he will tell you that no physician in the world can write a better prescription for a cold than Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine. It does the several things necessary to thoroughly cure a cold. It opens the bowels, gently but effectively—the first requirement in the treatment of a cold. It kills the cold germs in the system, drives out the poisonous infection and reduces the fever. It relieves that headachy and grippy feeling. It tones the entire system.

Relief—Quick and Complete!

In a word, relief with Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine is COMPLETE relief! The cold isn't merely suppressed, but driven completely out of the system and, at the same time, the system fortified against further attack. That's the relief you want for a cold or grippy. Anything less is only fooling yourself.

Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine is non-narcotic and absolutely safe. It produces no bad after-effects—does not upset the stomach, nauseate, or cause ringing in the head. In dainty tablet form, it is convenient and pleasant to take, as well as effective. Handy, pocket-size boxes cellophane-wrapped, for sale by every drug store in America.

For years Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine has been regarded as the "stitch in time" in relieving colds. For a few of the tablets taken immediately when sneezing and headaches begin to ensue, and that is necessary to expel a cold overnight. Any dealer who offers you a substitute is cheating.

WARRANTS FOR TWO IN FAKE DAMAGE SUIT

Negro "Runner" and Woman Held on False Pretense Charges.

Warrants charging an attempt to obtain money by false pretense were issued by the Circuit Attorney today against John Williams, negro "runner" for damage suit lawyers, and Mattie Jones, alias Annie May Davis, a Negro, 1623 Biddle street.

It is charged that on Aug. 15, 1931, the woman deliberately fell to the floor of a Kroger store at 820 North Sixth street and subsequently feigned internal injuries for which she filed a $4000 damage suit. She had admitted that the supposed accident was a fake, police say, explaining that Williams persuaded her to enter into a scheme to obtain money from large corporations through damage suits.

Investigators report that the woman also admitted a plan to defraud the Pickwick Greyhound Lines, Inc., through a claim for a supposed injury suffered when the service garage of the bus company, at 1409 Howard street, was damaged by an explosion last July 25.

She related, according to Police Lieutenant Ira Cooper, in charge of the investigation, that two weeks after the explosion Williams told her to make a claim for injuries, although she was not within range of the explosion. She made arrangements with a lawyer to represent her, but the suit was not filed. This case, not having reached the stage of a formal claim, was referred to the Prosecuting Attorney for action.

On the prisoner's statement that a Negro doctor agreed to testify in her behalf in the cases, the physician was arrested, and later released on $5000 bond. He denied the charge.

Williams was arrested last week by Lieut. Cooper in connection with a claim for injuries made by Mrs. Jones against the St. Louis Public Service Co. The claim was based on a collision between a street car and an automobile on Franklin avenue more than a year ago. Both Williams and the woman admitted, Cooper reports, that she was not at the scene at the time of the accident, but brought suit for $7500 against the street car company nevertheless. Williams was released in that case under the statute of limitations.

Punishment for attempting to obtain money by false pretense ranges from two years to two years and six months in the penitentiary.

MAYOR SIGNS BILL REPEALING FLOISSANT WIDENING LAW

Approves Also Measure Abrogating Ordinance for Similar Project on Fyler Avenue.

Mayor Miller signed bills today repealing ordinances for the widening of Floissant avenue from Palm street to Warne avenue and of Fyler avenue from Morganford road to McCausland avenue.

The Board of Aldermen recently passed bills repealing the proposals, which called for widening from 60 feet to 80 feet. Property owners had objected to the widening because of the additional taxes necessary. New proposals for the widenings in question may not be brought up in 10 years except by petition of three-fifths of the property owners.

The Streets Committee of the Board of Aldermen voted to recommend tabling of a bill providing for paving with concrete of Pine street from Fourth to Twelfth boulevard, to replace the present system of disposal by the city. The bill was introduced following criticism of the present method by the Bureau of Municipal Research, on grounds of unnecessary cost. City officials, however, pointed out that 113 men in the department would be thrown out of work if the contract system were adopted.

NOVEMBER COOLER THAN AVERAGE HERE

Precipitation Below Normal in Spite of Record Early Snowfall.

The average temperature for November was one of the lowest for that month in the records of the Weather Bureau, which go back to 1872. The average was 40.9 degrees, lower than the average in all but three other Novembers and 4.5 degrees below normal. The maximum temperature of the month, 48 degrees, was recorded on the fourth, and the lowest, 19 degrees, on the sixteenth.

Precipitation was 2.08 inches, .75 below normal. More than half of this fell on the fifteenth in the form of snow and sleet. Unmelted, the snowfall was 5.3 inches and the sleet .5 of an inch. The snowfall established a new record for one so early in the season. The first killing frost of the season occurred on Nov. 1.

The Mississippi River stage today was 1.1 of a foot, the lowest on record for November, and the mean stage for the month, one foot, was also a new low. Normal for the month is 2.8 feet.

month is 2.8 feet. There were 11 clear days, 19 partly cloudy and nine cloudy. Smoke palls hung over the city on the second, twenty-fourth, twenty-fifth and thirtieth, the most dense being on the twenty-fifth.

For Persistent Winter Coughs, Mix This at Home

Saves $2.50 Easy! No Cooking!

The best cough remedy that money can buy can easily be mixed at home. It costs very little, yet it's one of the most reliable, quick-acting medicines you ever used. The way it takes hold of stubborn winter coughs following hard colds, giving immediate relief, is astonishing. Any druggist can supply you with 2½ ounces of Pinex. Pour this into a pint bottle, and add granulated sugar syrup to make a full pint. To make syrup, use 2 cups of sugar and one cup of water, and stir a few moments until dissolved. No cooking needed. It's no trouble at all, and saves two-thirds of the money a family usually spends on cough medicine. Works perfectly, and tastes fine.

It is surprising how quickly this loosens the germ-laden phlegm, soothes and helps heal the inflamed membranes, clears the air passages, and thus ends a severe cough in a hurry.

Pinex is a compound of Norway Pine, in concentrated form, one of the most reliable agents for relieving severe coughs. It is guaranteed to give prompt relief or money refunded.

CONCLUSION.

GARY didn't understand at all, but he knew women were capricious, so he called it that. At times Myrna had been capricious. There was no doing anything right for her. Still he would have liked to speak to Fleur himself, ask her what she meant. Dr. Hanford advised against that. He simply told Gary that Fleur was upset, and that he was taking her home himself. What she had told him to say.

When he saw Gary safely out of the door, and the doorman calling for his car, Hanford went back to the chair where the girl was sitting, her hands gripping the small needlepoint arms, her back rigidly upright.

"I did what you wanted me to do. I sent him away. Now, if you'll tell me why—," he pulled up another chair beside her. In that minor she had seen Hanford. Fleur knew what she wanted to do. It was as plain as it was to her. She had known all along. His presence in the lobby had given her courage.

"I can't do it," she murmured, relaxing a trifle. She felt better with the doctor with her, and Gary gone. She had seen him go. Hanford with him, as far as the door. There was that one frightened moment when he hesitated as if he wanted to come back, but the doctor had taken his arm, and drawn him to the door.

"You can't do what? Can't you tell me?"

"A woman in an emerald coat passed, scrutinized Fleur carefully, and smiled. She hesitated as if to stop, but the girl turned her attention quickly to Hanford.

"You see I can't marry Gary. That's what's the matter. I just can't—make myself. I thought I could. I thought it would be easy, but when—oh, I can't—," She was talking very softly, tensely, and Hanford had to lean over to hear what she said. "I should, and I can't—"

"There never was any need of it, Fleur. What made you come to your senses?"

His voice was soothing. She glanced at him gratefully. "I saw Tom in the supper room tonight—," "And you were with Gary?"

"Yes—I'm selfish and all that. But I can't—," The last warning her mother had given her before she left the flat—was so sensible. Well, she hadn't been. She had been anything but sensible.

SHE hadn't even the courage to tell Gary herself, that she wouldn't go to the Chateau with him. Not that much courage in her, so she had begged Dr. Hanford to do it for her. If she hadn't seen Tom tonight, she might have gone through with it, but she had seen him, and everything was changed.

"You're not selfish," Hanford said firmly.

"Mother would be furious—," "Let her be furious. She's young, and she must readjust herself to these new conditions. She's always been neurotic, because she hasn't had enough to occupy her mind.

"I've known it for years, but there was nothing I could do except what I did to help her. The woods will do her as much good as they will John. I want her to believe that, Fleur. Will you?"

"I'll have to, I guess."

"You're coming with me, and we're going to see Tom Dorin."

He arose quickly.

"Tonight, because I want this doubt of yours gone for good. What's his phone number?"

She gave it reluctantly, and saw Hanford go away, only to come back a few minutes later to say that Dorin didn't answer.

"Any place else he might be?"

"We'll go there."

"Please—,"

"We're going to his office."

Hanford had a bridge foursome waiting for him upstairs, but he called his car and put the phone out of his mind. The three men in Suite 209 would believe a patient had summoned him. In a way Fleur was a patient tonight. Both a patient and a daughter. She had envied Bennett his son and daughter, because he was childless himself.

"Sloan," you said?"

"Yes, Sloan's. The windows were bright with lights when they reached the building, but the store itself was dark.

Hanford got out and opened the door. "You go and see if he's there. I'll wait out here for you. Understand me?"

Fleur pressed the watchman's bell, but her ring wasn't answered immediately. It was some time before the door opened and she was asking Curtis for Mr. Dorin.

He was in, and because Curtis recognized her as the girl who had come to the building at night before with the young, advertising manager, he let her in, and told her to go right up.

"He's alone?"

"Yes, miss. Mr. Sloan came in for a few minutes with him, but he's left."

THERE was a light shining through his frosted glass door when she reached the balcony and raised her hand to knock. On second thought she didn't knock. She turned the knob softly and felt the lock click in her fingers. Tom was sitting at his desk going through some papers. He looked up when she entered.

"A surprise, isn't it?" Bitterly,

CHAPTER THREE.

WITH the return of Loni to the box, Cavanaugh lost all interest in the story unfolding on the screen. Gates had moved over to the seat next the rail and was sitting utterly quiet with his head dropped slightly forward.

The fragrance of Loni's perfume preceded her into the box. Without removing her cloak, she sank into the inside chair beside Gates.

Cavanaugh was so close to her that he could easily have reached out and touched her shoulder.

The color had not come back to her face; he sensed the painful beating of her heart. When she leaned toward Gates, Cavanaugh heard her disjointed utterance.

"...If I marry you... no matter what scandal... protect me from the whole world! Douglas!"

She waited for an answer, but none came. The square-jawed man, who emerged from the crowd crying, "Loni! It is I, Karl Kruger. Do you want me to tell the whole world?" Loni turns white. She tells the man she will talk with him inside. Lucky Cavanaugh, a gambler, fascinated by Loni's beauty, saunters into the theater after Kruger. He prevents Kruger from making a scene and has him placed in a private office until after the show.

Cavanaugh then bribes an usher to seat him in Loni's box. During the performance Douglas Gates, Loni's elderly escort, proposes to her. She is tempted to accept him to get away from everything. In the office next to Kruger's, thieves are robbing the safe. Loni leaves her box and goes to Kruger. He taunts her with, "It is not pleasant to have a starving bum hanging around—not when he happens to be your husband!" He wants recognition as Loni's husband and all that goes with it. She refuses but he says he will wait for her to think it over.

From out the turmoil of his embarrassment and humiliation sprang an unguarded sentence of absolute honesty.

"If the boys ever start kiddin' me about the monkey suit," he stated, "I'll never live it down till my dyin' day."

The vanity of it sent Cavanaugh into peals of laughter.

In the box downstairs, Douglas Gates was still dozing, unaware of Loni's absence.

From the silvered screen Loni Lunska distributed her voice and looks and personality among four thousand cash customers. Up on the roof, Lucky Cavanaugh deftly broke the lock of a French window and stood aside for Loni to enter. His manner was that of a princely host.

The room was revealed in a soft yellow light as he found a button on the wall. Low modernistic furniture, a sleepy Buddha, celebrities photographed in silver frames.

Loni dropped into a chair, the shimmering cloak fell back from her white shoulders. Cavanaugh observed she was smiling.

"So what—now?" she said. "You have brought me up a lot of stairs, but are we any nearer heaven?"

"Give me a little more time and I'll see what I can do," said Cavanaugh lightly.

He kept his eyes fixed upon her unhappy face as he relaxed himself into a chair in front of her. how long it would be before they kissed.

The thought flashed across his mind—not as a bold speculation—but as a fact about to occur. It was a hunch—a definite message upon a mysterious telepathic wave length.

"I think," said Loni slowly, "that I am going to tell you something."

Cavanaugh waited for her to continue but she fell into an abstraction of silence. Her legs were crossed and she sat staring at the tip of her silver evening slipper.

Light from the lamp around her rounded her blonde head like a sheen of yellow moonlight.

"Where did you come from?" she asked him suddenly.

"From California this afternoon—"

"No, no! A million people might have come out of California. But you—where did you come from to drop into my life this night—tonight of all nights? When I first saw you I was looking back over my left shoulder. You were just another man—meaning nothing. Even now I don't know your name."

"Cavanaugh. Lucky, for a nickname."

"Cavanaugh, the Lucky," repeated Loni, voice it gravely. "It sounds like the title of some medieval King. It doesn't matter. You are you, whether you came from California—or dropped out of the sky. If you really have any luck I shall need it all tonight. Perhaps that is why you were sent to me—to bring me luck."

"It's all yours," he assured her. "That remains to be seen," she said, without looking at him. "I do not know why I am going to tell you—all this. All I know is that I must tell someone—that I've got to find help—some place!"

Cavanaugh, out of politeness, did not look at her eyes, did not see them begin to swim with tears which she managed to control before they dropped into the open palms of her hands, resting in her lap. They were the most beautiful hands he had ever seen—hands as helpless as two white flowers.

After a time, Loni Lunska began to speak.

She spared herself nothing. It was as impersonal as though she had been telling the story of another woman. Her life flowed past like a swift dark stream.

A factory in Vienna. Two hundred girls—children—making artificial flowers in a sunless room. Twelve hours a day. Black bread and watery lentil soup. Fingers stained with aniline dyes. Shoes with paper in the soles. Starved minds, starved youths. The maddening roar of machinery in the limit-filled air.

Karl Kruger. Escape. Wine. Marriage. Beatings. Hatred. Theft. Flight. Arrest. Escape. Terror. Wine. Beatings. Hysteria. Starvation. Collapse of body and mind. Men. Berlin. Max Landen. Kruger. Prison... America...

Out of the ashes rose the woman. Waitress. Salesgirl. Night school. Manhattan. English classes. Savings account. A stock company in Portland, Me. The long trip to Hollywood. Incredible ambition and iron-bound determination. Success... Stardom...

Her voice broke, ended sharply.

BEHIND THE SCREENS

By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 28.

ONE hears often, especially among movie casting directors, the lament about the terrific shortage of leading men and women.

In view of the thousands of would-be stars, the countless actors and actresses seeking for jobs, the "wall" would seem to be with-out much foundation, and yet the problem grows.

The why of it? I talked to a casting director recently who was in a peculiarly appropriate position to talk about the "shortage." He had four or five pictures set to start the following month and confessed he didn't know where he was going to get the players.

"Sure, there are plenty of actors out of work," he admitted, "but they're all actors we don't want and nobody else wants. Why don't we want 'em? Because they're hard to sell to directors, even when they're good."

A DIRECTOR wants a good "name" in his cast—a player with experience and ability, well known to the public—and he remembers some player he's seen recently. That's how it happens that those who work steadily keep on getting jobs and have all the studios after them, while those who haven't worked much don't get the breaks. The vicious circle idea again. The closed corporation.

Directors sometimes argue that they will use an unknown if the proper name can't be found, but it was this director's observation that directors who actually start shooting with such an obscure player are very rare. They hold out for the "name."

ALL of which is very true. Constance Cummings is a leading lady much in demand now, yet a couple of years ago she was just another actress, a beginner whom directors probably were turning down more often than they accepted. Some of them took her, and the unknown became the Constance Cummings who seemingly is wanted by all the studios.

No better example of a "name" overlooked by a studio exists than Lee Tracy, who today gets more bids than he can take. Tracy wasn't unknown when he was at Fox three years ago, a contract player, but one picture he appeared in failed to make money, and he was dropped. Since "Blessed Event" he can virtually write his own ticket.

The same can be reported for a dozen other players.

And yet there's a "shortage" of leading men and women. It's a real shortage, too, because Hollywood is Hollywood—and that's the way it is.

LAMAR CRIME WAVE NIPPED IN THE BUD.

(From the Lamar, Mo. Democrat) Nightwatch Dick Staats arrested the bicycle of Charlie Gardner Monday evening. Dick said he had been telling Charlie to get a light on his bike, but Charlie would only answer tantalizingly, and fail to get a light. Another boy was riding the bike, when Dick saw it. He took possession of the wheel, and started for the calaboose with it. The officer said Charlie gave him a good cussing out, whereas the officer slapped him. He locked the bike in the calaboose, and told its youthful owner he could have the wheel when he got a light for it.

Q. and A. DEPARTMENT

Dear Aunt Bella—

I noticed that several tabloid papers pay $2 for the best letter telling "How He Proposed." Why don't you do that?

Constant Reader.

Ans.—

While Aunt Bella is glad to place any complaint or suggestion before the board of directors at their meeting, she cannot hold out false hope to the unfortunate. However, Aunt Bella would be glad to recommend a department soliciting letters dealing with the general subject, of interest to all, "What He Proposed."

—Aunt ("Procrastinator") Bella.
